

Gabriele Münter, Kahnpartie, um 1910

Gabriele Münter, Wassily Kandinsky, Marianne von Werefkin und Alexej Jawlensky fanden im Sommer 1908, während ihres ersten Studienaufenthalts in Murnau, zu einer neuen, expressiven Form- und Farbgestaltung. Es entstanden zahlreiche Gemälde in Murnau und seiner Landschaft, darunter Gabriele Münters "Kahnpartie", um 1910. Werefkin, die das Boot rudert, Münter und der kleine Andreas, der Sohn Jawlenskys unternehmen einen Ausflug auf dem Staffelsee. Im Hintergrund zeigen sich die Berge der Voralpen.

During their stay in Murnau in the summer of 1908 Gabriele Münter, Wassily Kandinsky, Marianne von Werefkin und Alexej Jawlensky developed expressive, new techniques using color and contour. Many works of art were created in Murnau and the surroundings, including Gabriele Münter's "Boat Party" from 1910. Werefkin at the oars, and Münter with Jawlensky's small son Andreas are enjoying an outing on the Staffelsee. The foothills of the Alps are visible in the background.
